

'Coventry Boy, this boy has no name but represents all boys of all time who are proud to belong here reaching out as always from rough spun to close weave for family and for city'

Outside Coventry Cathedral stands a statue, 'The Coventry Boy'. It depicts a young man climbing up steps, his lower foot unshod and holding aloft in his left hand a scroll. This is his Apprenticeship Certificate. The sculpture is a metaphor for his rise out of poverty through the power of education. That was my Dad's story. A Coventry Boy.
